Class Cancellation Procedure

- The Law School Makes Its Own Closing Decisions
  - Closing decisions for the Law School are made by the Dean's office at the Law School.
  - Do not be confused by announcements from the Governor's office, other State agencies, or the Storrs campus.

- How We Communicate about Closures
  - Closing announcements will be posted on the Law School homepage and recorded on the Law School hotline: 860-570-5145.
  - We do not post on local radio and TV because they do not allow enough detail in description of closing times / classes cancelled.
  - Do not rely on media announcements.

- How We Make the Decision
  - Decisions are made by the Assistant Dean for Finance & Administration, in consultation with the Dean, the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, the Associate Dean for Library & Technology, the UConn Police Master Sergeant, and the Law School Facilities Manager.
  - Decision makers may drive local streets to assess conditions as well as consult various weather sources.
  - The decision is never made lightly, and must balance academic and safety needs.
  - Individual students who are not comfortable driving in the existing weather conditions may exercise their discretion not to do so.

Announcements from Storrs

- Storrs will send announcements to the general University listservs; these announcements only apply to those studying at the Storrs campus.

Other Details

- Normally cars may not be left on campus overnight; any car left on campus may be towed to allow for plowing.
- If you must leave a car overnight, contact the UConn Police at 860-570-5173.
- The City of Hartford imposes on-street parking bans during snowstorms.
