The University of Connecticut School of Law's Pro Bono Pledge program reflects the principle that members of the legal profession and those aspiring to enter the legal profession have an obligation to provide legal services to those unable to pay, to promote access to justice, and to serve the public good. In recognition of this principle, I hereby pledge to complete, prior to graduation, a minimum number of hours (specified below) of supervised volunteer work that helps to meet the legal needs of persons of limited means or is in the public interest. At least eighty percent of my pro bono service will be law-related. I have reviewed and will comply with the Pro Bono Pledge program requirements (available at <http://www.law.uconn.edu/student-handbook/pro-bono-and-public-interest/pro-bono-pledge-program>).
