OLYMPIAN RACES TOWARD DUAL DEGREES: Donn Cabral is pursuing a law degree and an MBA at UConn while training for a spot in his third Olympics. It’s a great thing he’s had to live to be 31.

Symposium Explores Tribal Conservation Traditions and Freedom: The annual Connecticut Law Review symposium examined the intersection of cultural values, federal law and the environment.

Help us make a difference.

Olympian Races Toward Dual Degrees

Donn Cabral is pursuing a law degree and an MBA at UConn while training for a spot in his third Olympics. It’s a great thing he’s had to live to be 31.

PILG Auction Exceeds Fundraising Goal:

A lively crowd raised more than $22,000 at the annual Public Interest Law Group auction to support law students undertaking public interest fellowships.

Symposium Explores Tribal Conservation Traditions and Freedom:

The annual Connecticut Law Review symposium examined the intersection of cultural values, federal law and the environment.

Help us make a difference.

ALUMNI AWARDS

Anne C. Dranginis ’72, Perry Zinn-Rowthorn ’97 and Professor Jon Bauer were honored on October 16, 2018, along with Donald J. Bell ’13, Walter Menjivar ’12, Meredith O’Keefe ’08 and Matthew Ritter ’07. See the photos on Flickr.

More events...